REETING

To you who hold in your hearts a yearning for the old days in Arkansas; to you who have learned here to work and play and love, and found here friends that are true; to you the Seniors of '13 who will this year go forth with gladness and with sadness from these old walls; and to you our class-mates whom we have long worked with, we send out this little volume. We, the class of Fourteen, the class of tomorrow, do add our chronicle to the many that have gone before, and present to the coming days of your lives and ours a book whose pages, we trust, will recall one of the happiest and sweetest of years, the year of '12 and '13

OUR PRESIDENT.

To

Charles Hillman Brough

a friend of every student of the University who for eleven years has rendered our Alma Mater loyal and efficient service, this the sixteenth volume of the Cardinal is affectionately dedicated.

Charles Hartman Drough

R. CHARLES HILLMAN BROUGH was born in Clinton, Hinds County, Mississippi, July 9, 1876. He was educated under the direction of his uncle, Dr. Walter Hillman, at Mississippi College, from which institution he was graduated with honors in 1893. Following his graduation he pursued a post-graduate course in economics, history, and jurisprudence at the Johns Hopkins University, where he won the $500 fellowship in political economy and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, in 1898. Upon the retirement of President Webb, as Professor Emeritus of Philosophy in Mississippi College, Dr. Brough was elected to this chair, adding to the department extensive courses in political economy and history. After teaching four years in this capacity he resigned to take the law course in the University of Mississippi, under Gov. Sands and Prof. Sommerville, completing the two years course in one and receiving distinction. He intended entering the active practice of law at Jackson, but just at the time he received his LL.B. from the University of Mississippi, he was called to the University of Arkansas as professor of economics and sociology. Since coming to Arkansas eleven years ago, Dr. Brough has built up one of the largest departments in the University, having an enrollment of over three hundred students annually. He has taken an active interest in building up the public school system of the State and has delivered the commencement address at almost every high school and college in the State. His interest in economic and political questions is nation-wide in its scope. He organized the first University Woodrow Wilson Club in the United States, October 19, 1911, having taken a special course under the president-elect at the Johns Hopkins University. He is chairman of the Commission of Southern Professors appointed by Dr. James H. Dillard, of New Orleans, to study the negro problem, and is a member of the executive committee of the Southern Sociological Congress. Dr. Brough is an author and lecturer whose name is familiar throughout the South, having contributed extensively to the publications of the Arkansas and Mississippi State Historical societies and to "The South in the Building of the Nation." He is President of the Arkansas State Teachers' Association, the most widely known member of the Faculty of the University, and one of the South's greatest orators.

SENIOR

Senior Poem

Once more the ever-welcome June! And once Again the round-recurring Day, the dawn
To Learning's many a four-year child! Hail! Hail!
All hail! Divinity! Oft have we watched
Your chosen line defile, and now our long Awaited time has come. Most joyfully
We welcome it and you, and wistful gaze
Into the misty, winding path ahead.
We long to try the steep and perilous way,
To gather tender flowers, if we may,
As half-concealed beneath the rocks they lie.
Yes, infinitely glad, and yet methinks
Some tears will flow to blind the vision bright
And stay the hastening foot. E'en now the heart
Grows heavy as the mind recalls the scenes
Gone by. 'Tis said the days of youth are far
The brightest, and the best of man's three score
And ten. And yet full well we know that in
The world's allotment that shall come to us,
If bright forsooth the striving day and calm
The easeful night, we'll never cease to feel
The power of things we now hold dear.

We would not have it said we have not lived,
That in these years we've failed to grasp and profit
Of all that we have met. The means we bless—
So skillfully directed by the hands
Of those who've learned the discipline of life,
Attained to wisdom through experience—
Which so have strengthened our desires and aims,
Our idols lifted and our thoughts sublimed.
Our days have been the very essence of
That life whereby each aspirant learns how he

More readily and fruitfully may drop
 His silver mite of love and sacrifice
 Into the coffers of the state. And, O,
 If by one careless word or thoughtless deed
 Of ours these sacred walls are marred, believe
 The sin was born of ignorance, and let
 Our future lives atone. But if, perchance,
 One tiny gem our sojourn here has set,
 Then are we humbly glad, and joyfully
 Pursue our sovereign way.

So we depart. Our many paths diverge
 In ever-widening arcs throughout the world.
 Reluctantly we yield demesne to our Successors, worthy guardians of the trust.
 Forever love, revere, and sanctify,
 O, you, who in the coming years shall learn
 To know the things we know and love so well.
 So, long and strong, our Alma Mater's life,
 Through us, through you, may be. Let ever wave
 The Cardinal. Imperial the response:—
 "To us you gave your all. We give ourselves Great Arkansas, to thee."

ACHENBACH, C. H. $\Sigma \Phi E$ Electrical Engineer
Deer Lodge, Mont.

Sometimes he's mad,
Sometimes he's sad,
Sometimes he's glad,
Sometimes he's bad.

ANDERSON, WILLIE.....French
Conway, Ark.

"Would that I were a boy again."

Bill has had a hard time all year convincing people that she is a Senior, and she has had to talk so much in defending herself that some are still of the opinion that she is a Freshman.

ANDERSON, L. I., Garland.....Economics
Hollywood, Ark.

He'd be less of a puzzle
If on his mouth he wore a muzzle.

ATKINSON, ELZA, Sapphic...English and Pedagogy
Bodeaw, Ark.

Elza is a loyal wide-awake girl who is liked by everybody, and who does all she can, in the very best way she can.

"Every effort we make for the happiness of others lifts us above ourselves."

BALL, S. M. Σ A E Economics
Ravenden Springs, Ark.

To meet, to know, to love, and then to spark,
Is the happy tale of Ball's and Barton's hearts.

BARTON, W. H., Periclean..... Chemistry
Cove, Ark.

One pound of learning requires ten pounds of common sense to apply it.

A pretty girl with a pretty voice
Is likely to be the girl of his choice.

BAYLEY, P. L. Garland, Mathematics and Pedagogy
Fort Smith, Ark.

A mathematician and musician fine,
And breaks the Golden Rule "nary" a time.

BELTS, FLORENCE, Sapphic. English and Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

Polite and precise and pious,
Small and smart and silent.

"Wouldn't you be shocked to see her rooting at a football game?"

BLACKSHIRE, LOCHIE, Sapphic.....Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

"Our deeds still travel with us from afar,
And what we have been makes us what we are."

BLAKELY, L. R. K A*Economics*
Alix, Ark.

"The dearest remembrance will still be the last,
His sweetest memorial, the first kiss of love."
"Since he on honey dew hath fed,
And drunk the milk of paradise."

BLED SOE, ALVA, Torch, Sapphic...Latin, Pedagogy
LaCrosse, Ark.

When she came among us she had a wonderful brain, but her troubles and tussles with "math" have been recompensed by giving her a fine, clear and extensive prospect.

BRERETON, BLANCHE, Skull, Sapphic.....
.....Latin and Pedagogy
Sodus, N. Y.

"The winds and waves are always on the side of the ablest navigator."

Blanche is a girl who never fails to find a solution for any problem she meets.

BREWER, M. H., Garland.....Civil Engineering
Murfreesboro, Ark.

As an instructor Mack is an indispensable acquisition to the Military Department. He executes all movements with the ease and grace of a cow.

BUCKLEY, S. S. $\Sigma \Phi E$ Civil Engineering
Rogers, Ark.

Spence is a jolly good fellow, perfectly capable of running Spence's affairs. The motto of his heart is: "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

BULLOCK, T. J., Periclean.....Economics
Dover, Ark.

Given the appellation, "Mamma's boy," by the Model School children. His crushing personality would break a stone structure. Second Lieutenant of Company B, President of the Periclean, oldest man in the University. Favors the girls in all his teaching.

CHERRY, J. L. K A*Agriculture*
Paris, Ark.

Louis is a farmer by profession, a lady's man by practice and a preacher's son by merit. Louis also holds some claims as a poet, being the author of:

"The girls, they chuckle me under the chin,
To see the black-headed Agri grin."

COLLINS, A. J. Electrical Engineering
Foreman, Ark.

Carnegie will be remembered for his cleverness in planning and directing rough-houses without becoming involved in the execution. He is continually tinkering with the electrical appliances in other fellows rooms.

COLLINS, J. H. Agriculture
Fort Smith, Ark.

Homer is one of the University's brightest lads. Ordinarily he is a reserved fellow, but waxes warm in any discussion in which the merits of scientific agriculture is the issue.

CRUZE, GRANT $\Sigma \Phi E$ Civil Engineering
Knoxville, Tenn.

His first year. Came here because of the reputation Arkansas has away from home. Very proud of his harr. It doth not yet appear what he shall be.

DAVIS, R. L., Periclean, Senior, Honor. History
Larkin, Ark.

"Jeff" is orator for the Senior class, Associate Editor of the "Arkansan," President of the Periclean. Expects to get to Congress on his hearty laughing. Assistant head janitor, and commands the Freshmen like a lord. A practical politician, whose ambition is to be boss of Izard County.

DEANE, MADELINE, Sapphic. English and Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

"Common sense in an uncommon degree is what the world calls wisdom." Madeline has this in abundance, besides a big heart, ready sympathy and unselfish nature that have won her many friends.

DEEG, LENA, Skull, Sapphic.....History
Eureka Springs, Ark.

"Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up." Lena is destined to be a shining light in politics, and we feel that in her future career she will turn things up just as successfully as of old at the U. of A.

DICKINSON, R. V.....Mechanical Engineering
Horatio, Ark.

Dick, as he is commonly called, is noted for his church-going propensity. He has been one time since he has been in the University, and that was when the Christian Church burned.

DOUGLAS, W. E.....Electrical Engineering
Galesburg, Ill.

Tovey's pet, whom he brought down from Galesburg for company, and who once saved the famous musician's life on the Lakes. Plays the clarinet for fun and livelihood.

DROKE, MARY, Skull, $\Pi B \Phi$ Mathematics
Fayetteville, Ark.

"Force rules the world, not opinion; but opinion which makes use of force."

Mary's strong points are her good looks and brains. She is a spark in Math. and a prodigy in French.

GIST, J. E., Periclean.... English and Economics
Franklin, Ark.

Gist has a great ambition. Since he was sixteen his highest aspiration has been to become President—of a family.

GLADSON, HAZEL, $\Pi B \Phi$ Economics
Fayetteville, Ark.

A woman of meditation is happy, not for an hour or a day, but quite around the circle of all her years.

GREIG, STAR, Agri Club..... Agriculture
Van Buren, Ark.

Star maintains that 'tis the noblest profession of them all to till the soil. We predict much success for him in that line of work, for he sleeps too late for breakfast two mornings out of three.

HAMILTON, A. C. Σ Civil Engineering
Fayetteville, Ark.

Treasurer of his class. Three-thirds, and blame near four-thirds, of the Military Department when he was young.

HARRIS, MARTHA, $\chi \Omega$ English
Fayetteville, Ark.

There is a grace and gentleness about her that always shows itself wherever she may be. She is musically inclined, and a good student of English.

HIGHFILL, LEROY, $\Pi \kappa \alpha$ Agriculture
Springfield, Mo.

LeRoy is news rustler. He was business manager of the Cardinal for 1911-12. He dreams of the day when he will become rich by writing agricultural articles. He deals wholly with the theoretical and leaves the other man to work with the practical.

HOLTZCLAW, H. F. Mathematics
Vineyard, Ark.

Henry is not known to all, being Mamma's baby boy. He says, however, when he is a grown-up man he intends to draw all men unto him by teaching Math.

University of Arkansas
LIBRARY.

HORTON, H. W. $\Sigma \Phi E$ Civil Engineering
Knoxville, Tenn.

Here by mistake. This is his first year in Arkansas. Quiet, jovial, good-natured, and worthy of serious consideration.

HORTON, RALPH, Lee..... History
Morrilton, Ark.

The man who never sleeps. Not because he doesn't want to, but because of his dreams over Latin 2. He fully believes that "an honest confession is good for the soul." Because of such belief, he told Prof. Futrall he didn't care anything for Latin, except he wanted a pass. He Passed. P stands for pass, you know.

HURST, J. D..... History
Fayetteville, Ark.

There are only two courses that Davis can boast of, and they are German and History 7. He coaches German and knocks on History 7.

KELTON, FANNIE, Sapphic..... Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

A kind heart is a fountain of gladness, making everything in its vicinity to freshen and smile. The best portion of a good woman's life is her "little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love."

KINSWORTHY, B. S. Σ Skull.....
Senior Honor, Economics
 Little Rock, Ark.

He made his debut as a speaker during the stirring times of the strike. He intends to be a lawyer, and figure in everything from how to rob the dead to how to enrich the "malefactors of great wealth."

KIRBY, A. C. Σ A*Chemistry*
 Harrison, Ark.

Entered years ago. Will never amount to anything much, but imagines he has a voice. Insignificant, and goes among the ladies quite frequently. Expects to be a doctor.

LANGSTON, ZORA, Sapphic.....Pedagogy
 Vineyard, Ark.

Always patient and always kind. She meets her tasks without a murmur, and is never too busy to give a pleasant word or smile to anyone who may pass her way.

LAWSON, LILLIAN Σ Ω English
 Fayetteville, Ark.

"The sunshine is but rivalled by the sunshine of her hair." Lillian has style of dress and style of manner, but neither of these surpass the style of her writing. Among her inexpressible charms are her good looks, pleasant smile, and kind disposition.

LUCAS, CAMILLE, X Ω Skull.....English
Little Rock, Ark.

Favorite type, brunette; favorite color, blue; favorite song, "Watch On the Rhyne." Camille is full of smiles and wiles, and possesses an equal amount of earnestness and sincerity.

MARSH, J. E. Garland.....Economics
Okolona, Ark.

Jim is a "straight-from-the-shoulder" boy. He is intense in his likes and in his dislikes. At one time he studied Math., but finding it too easy to Prof. Droke, he dropped it and took Economics to Dr. Brough. Jim is frequently spoken of as "Deacon Marsh," because of his persistency in giving moral lectures to the boys.

McCLUER, R. D., Garland.....Geology
Cane Hill, Ark.

Can learn absolutely nothing but rocks. Believes in evolution; his father is a minister, but Mac. is evolving backwards. What he doesn't know about fossils was torn out of the book.

McLELLAND, C. J., Periclean....Latin, Economics
Beirne, Ark.

An incomparable phenomenon commonly known as "Ram." Mc. hates his enemies, but sticks "closer than a brother" to his friends. He has an abundance of self-confidence, and is always ready to assist in any good cause. Rather than be in the limelight himself, he prefers to be back of the man in the limelight.

MOORE, J. G. Lee.....Philosophy
Sulphur Rock, Ark.

President of Y. M. C. A. The wittiest, prettiest, most popular boy in school. Very fond of Latin and Agriculture. Doesn't know what he will be, but expects to be self-sustaining, which his friends very much doubt. A man thoroughly sound in all his principles.

MOORE, S. W.....Civil Engineering
Kensett, Ark.

Sam has more pressing engagements than any U. of A. boy. But amid it all, "He whistles when he's merry, he whistles when he's sad, he whistles when the weather's fine, he whistles when it's bad."

MORTON, JENNIE, Π Β Φ*Economics*
Fort Smith, Ark.

Unlike Tennyson's Brook, she flows on as a calm, steady river, without a single bubbling current. We may safely say that her dignity is her major.

MOSS, LOWELL, Σ Ν*Chemistry*
Little Rock, Ark.

A good little boy, his teachers say. Never makes any noise, and will play all day all to himself. "In him the virtues congregate."

NEWBERRY, J. L. Σ N Senior Honor....Economics
Arkadelphia, Ark.

Fish is Business Manager of the College Magazine. He is a cartoonist of first rank. Best fellow in the world to make excuses, and the poorest fellow in the world to take abuses. Fish climbs the ladder of honor and fame in his dreams.

"Tis good he does, if he hopes to climb."
For "Things are not always what they seem."

NORTHUM, T. M.....Electrical Engineering
Charleston, Ark.

Business Manager of Weekly. Quiet and unassuming, but puts through everything he undertakes. His neatness makes him a lion among the ladies. Guilty of efficient service on the Dormitory Council, of which he is President.

ONEAL, F. L.....Electrical Engineering
Rogers, Ark.

Although not one of the "Dirty Thirty-Six," he believes in "turning on the light."

He has more practical experience than any other E. F. Never been with a girl in his life, but expects to marry a suffragette.

ORTON, MYRTLE, Torch, Sapphic.....Pedagogy
Cartersville, Mo.

Intelligence is a luxury. It is a torch or a firebrand, according to the use one makes of it. With Myrtle it is a "Torch."

OVERTON, W. R., Lee.....Civil Engineering
Creemway, Ark.

His quietness is exceeded only by the whiteness of his hair. Went to classes six years without missing one until he broke his leg. Believes in woman suffrage.

Surveyed Prof. Droke's turnip patch for a pass in Mathematics.

PARCELL, E. W.....Mechanical Engineering
Tampa, Fla.

Played on Senior football team. Eats Math. as vivaciously as he does bananas. Although from a warm country, he expects to stay away hereafter. Good fellow, but few know it.

POTTER, MABEL, Torch, Sapphic.....Economics
Stuttgart, Ark.

"Still water runs deep." Mabel is a splendid little housekeeper, and it has been rumored that she is a candidate for a degree in Domestic Science.

POTTER, WINNIE, Torch, Sapphic.....Latin
Stuttgart, Ark.

Winnie can't decide whether she wants to be a Prof. of Latin in a higher university or a hair dresser in some New York establishment, so she is going to stay another year to think the matter over.

POTTER, R. L. Agriculture
Stuttgart, Ark.

To find out more about him, ask his guardian, Mrs. R. L. Potter.

RHYNE, J. O. Economics
Foreman, Ark.

Jake has won an enviable reputation for his good, easy nature. He offends no one, and is not easily offended. Yet he is a football player, paradoxical as it may seem. He was elected as a representative of the Senior Class to the Student Council, and President of the Senior Class.

RICE, EDNA, Sapphic. Pedagogy
Siloam Springs, Ark.

She is industrious, studious, and intellectual. After finishing here she intends to teach for awhile, and later found an orphans' asylum.

RICHMOND, H., K A Mechanical Engineering
Fort Smith, Ark.

Commonly known as "Prep," a title entirely fitting. Is learning mechanics to enable him to build fires in his dad's hardware store. He never comes to the Main Building except for Math., nor has he seen a girl since he had English I. Works hard, and is a great standby with his Professors.

ROARK, G. W., ΣN Chemical Engineering
Franklin, Ky.

Price is his main consideration, although he is not a merchant. Has a bunch of formulas stored away in his little bump of knowledge. Being Dr. Brough's brother-in-law is an asset to him. Has trouble saying things for his "ahs!"

SCHALCHLIN, G. W. $\Sigma \Phi E$
..... Electrical Engineering
Mablevale, Ark.

One of Arkansas' greatest quarterbacks and shortstops. Very affable. His home is Mable-Vale, but his pursuit is Mable Constant.

SHANNON, MARY, $\Pi B \Phi$ Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

"When you get me a good man made of arguments I will get you a good dinner made by reading a cookery book." She is a girl who never fails to express her own opinion, for—what her heart thinketh her tongue speaketh.

SKINNER, B. J., $\Sigma A E$ Economics
Locksburg, Ark.

Dad takes great interest in his real estate on Pea Ridge. He can never laugh without showing his artificiality.

SNELL, EDITH, Sapphic....English and Pedagogy
Harrison, Ark.

Senior Representative to Cardinal. Edith trembles at her own capability, but we notice that she does all things well. Some think her timid, but on knowing her they find that she is firm.

STOCKBURGER, R. R., $\Sigma A E$ Economics
Fayetteville, Ark.

"Stock" is also an important corner-stone in the Military Department. His parents say he was always handsome, even as a baby.

STOVER, D. A., $\Sigma \Phi E$ Electrical Engineering
Rogers, Ark.

Some question Don's being a Senior, since sometimes "The truth itself is not believed." Became a valuable asset to the team as full-back in 1912. Against his theology to have scruples. If he has not "done" you he will, if you get acquainted with him.

STRICKLAND, GEORGE, Senior, Honor...Agriculture
Atkins, Ark.

"Strick" is a member of the Student Council. He says he's not well up in English, but he's an Agri. born, and an Agri. bred to raise the corn to make the bread for the new generation, the foundation of this wonderful nation."

TILLEY, IRENE, A Y*Pedagogy*
Fayetteville, Ark.

"And she has smiles to earth unknown,
Smiles that with motions of their own,
Do spread and sink and rise,
That come and go with endless play,
And ever as they pass away
Are hidden in her eyes."

TORRENCE, J. H.Chemical Engineering
Fayetteville, Ark.

Torrence is an indefatigable worker. He reads Chemistry for past time.

TUCKER, M. C.Agriculture
Fayetteville, Ark.

Married. Captain of the band, and can put more into a big horn than he can get out in a week. Represents the farmers on the Student Council.

WALDRON, R. C., Periclean.Economics
Black Rock, Ark.

President of the Student Council. Intercollegiate debater against Louisiana in 1913, which he says is the first step toward the U. S. Senate.

WATKINS, G. W.....Electrical Engineering
Harrison, Ark.

So quiet his blood does not circulate freely.
Had a nighthorse one night. Thought he had joined a Frat, but made it safely over. Has been to the Main Building three times since he finished English I—to matriculate each year.

WEBB, J. W., Garland.....Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

Also married, but vows that he is not hen-pecked.

WHITTY, ANNA.....Pedagogy
Fayetteville, Ark.

So clever and Witty,
With eyes bright and snappy,
And disposition happy.

WOHRA, HAR DAS.....Mechanical Engineering
Piro Shah District; Giyrat Punjab, India.

This comer from across the seas tried several American schools, but likes Arkansas best of all. A hard student. Doomed to remain a widower forever, according to the laws of his religion, the wife to whom his parents married him died. Will return to India.

WILLIAMS, MAURICE, Garland.....History
Estes, Ark.

Editor-in-Chief of Weekly. Senior Representative to the Cardinal. Maurice was accused in his Junior year of being a ladies' man. He has not yet rid himself of the charge.

Wood, R. W. Σ A E Senior, Honor....Economics
Little Rock, Ark.

Roy could be the best all-round athlete in Arkansas, but, strange to say, he takes very little interest in athletics.

WOODY, W. W. Σ X Skull..Romance Languages
Fayetteville, Ark.

Most commonly known as Judge Woody.

His catchy looks would chill the hottest idea of his satanic majesty. "Woody" never talks, but thinks on facts.

WYLIE, C. N., Garland.....Economics
Prescott, Ark.

President of the class during his Junior year. Colen prides himself as being Lieutenant Wylie. His black eyes and hair are killers, so the ladies say. While Colen is a B. A., he feels that he has an interest in the Agriculture Department.

History of Class of '13

HE OLD man pushed his spectacles up on his forehead and chuckled to the boy at his feet. "Yes," he said, "that was a great class—the best that ever graduated. I'm mighty glad I went through with that class."

"Tell me about it, Grandpa," begged the little fellow gleefully, and stirred the fire 'till it blazed.

The old man lay back in his chair and looked at the leaping flames with half-shut eyes. "We were a queer lot of Freshmen," he mused. "I can see us coming in now, most of us green and gawky, with our high school diplomas in our trunks, and everyone determined to out-do the Seven Sages. We strutted around the campus as if we owned the whole place. But the Sophomores took most of that out of us." He smiled in recollection and went on. "We fought like tigers in the football game, but they came out ahead in spite of us. We could only grin and bear it, and hope for better luck next time.

"Hudson was President that year. Wonder what ever became of him? There were a lot of fine fellows in that class—and girls, too, of course, though I was too bashful then to get within gun-shot of the girls' dormitory. I made up for it later, though, when I began going over to Carnall Hall to see your grandmother.

"But I was talking about the fellows in the class. Let me see. There was Big Dan Estes, our football hero. How everyone did like Dan! And there was a funny little Jap in the class—Takata was his name—that everybody liked and laughed at. Then there was one chap named Ray, who dropped out. It seems to me that he got into the State Legislature later on. Oh, that was a great lot, though some of them never came back.

"The next year we won the Freshman-Sophomore Debate, and of course we were immensely proud of our debaters, Herring and Medley. Herring was President that year, too. He and I roomed together, and what times we used to have!" He stared into the fire which was burning low again.

"What next, Grandpa?" asked the boy. "You were a Junior then, weren't you?"

"Yes, that I was. It makes me feel good to think about that year. We licked the Seniors in the football game, and what a celebration and shirt-tail parade we had afterwards! Then on Junior-Senior Day we simply wiped the Senior class out of existence. A fellow by the name of Colin Wylie was President that year. Let me see, what else happened? Oh, of course, we were in the strike. You couldn't keep the Juniors out of anything. Our class put out a mighty fine Cardinal that year, too, with Achenbach as Editor-in-Chief."

He stopped again. Impatiently the little boy exclaimed: "But the last year, Grandpa? It was the best, wasn't it?"

"Yes, yes, the best of all"—and the old man's eyes kindled. "That was the best year that ever happened. We had a fine man for President, Jake Rhyne, and I don't think there ever was a class with more class spirit—'pep,' as we used to call it. Why, at the Junior-Senior football game we simply carried the field, as far as spirit was concerned. We didn't win the game, but—"

"You just let them have that one, didn't you, Grandpa?" interrupted the little boy, grinning.

"Yes," chuckled the old man, "of course. And Junior-Senior Day!—I shall never forget it. And the banquet the night before was—glorious," he finished, almost inaudibly.

"One of the debaters that year was a Senior—Waldron—and we were all proud of him, and of our Weekly Editor, Williams, and Gist, the Arkansan Editor-in-Chief. Moore was another fine man, our Y. M. C. A. President. But as for importance, why, there was old "Ram" McClelland, who got through at mid-term. What would we have done without him? And the girls in the class—they were the best ever. I wouldn't know where to stop if I began naming them.

"After Junior-Senior Day time simply flew. The first thing we knew we were sitting upon the platform in our longed-for caps and gowns, feeling hot and foolish, happy and proud, glad and—sad, all at once. We were graduating, our college life was over and we were ready and eager for the future, whatever it might be. Oh, those four busy, happy years!"

His voice died away and then stopped. The fire burned lower and lower, until only an occasional flicker cast grotesque shadows over the faintly lighted room. And still the old man gazed with half-shut eyes into the glowing coals, and seemed to see in their warm light happy memory-pictures of the class of 1913.

ACREE, W. F.

A friend to every Freshman. They should not be hazed.

BARTON, ALMA

Modesty is the brightest jewel in the crown of womankind.

ADAMS, ELIZABETH

The maiden whose head is splintered with Cupid's dart.

BERRY, B. M.

Is seen but little, and known less.

ANDREWS, M.

Better known as "Door Knob Dan."
The quietest man in Gray Hall.

BIRD, NELLE

"No, my name is not Nellie, neither is it spelled B-y-r-d. I'm a real bird. Have you that fifty cents for class dues?"

ARMITAGE, RITA

"I can love more than those girls who love so easily and so often."

BOWEN, E. A.

"Behold how straight I walk."

BANTA, KATHERINE

The charming blonde who has been so interested in the Cardinal and the Editor-in-Chief. She says they go well together.

BOYD, FRANCIS

She may some day go to the Hall of Fame as a poetess, if she continues making rhymes.

BRADLEY, H. H.
"Let's see; importance sawed off."

CARROLL, HUGH A. DINSMORE
"It is not all in a man, but part in a name."

BRAGG, P. N.
"Let time that makes you homely, make you sage."

CASEY, W. B.
All his beauty and glory come from within.

BRYANT, ANNA
"If winsome smiles and artificial dimples won't smash his heart, what will it take?"

CLARK, M. D.
Has not been seen lately; must be sleeping.

BUERKLE, J. G.
"I am going to buy a conservative suit this spring. I am tired of these fussy ones."

COOK, E. T.
"What, me take a woman? Never!"

CARNES, G. C.
"Thay I'll trade latht with you."
He dances as though he were an ethereal being.

COVENTON, J. W.
Jim Marsh's room-mate.

CROOM, S. G.

"I am a man; what concerns man must concern me."

DOWNS, R. R.

Yes, this is he, Roy Railroad Rodman Robert Downs, sometimes called "Goat."

CRUMPLER, S. A.

"Gone but not forgotten."

DUNCAN, W. W.

"Mexico for mine as soon as I can leave this place."

DAVENPORT, BESS

Bessie is a Latin shark, and consequently Professor Futrall's pet.

DUNN, W. A.

He has done nothing to tell about.

DEVANEY, HALLIE

Light of heart—and head.

EARL, R. D.

"Time is lord of thee;
Thy wealth, thy glory,
And thy name are his."

DOWDLE, R. G.

"Great thoughts, like great deeds, need no trumpet."

ELLIS, ELIZABETH

If hot air were music she would be a brass band.

FUNK, GLADYS

She will have at least one star in her crown for her unswerving devotion to duty as Chief Proctor in Carnall Hall for two years in succession.

"Where's that racket?"

"Turn off the light, girls, I hear G. Funk coming."

"She comes, she sees, she proctors."

HAYS, C. W.

"I didn't understand the question."

GERIG, F. A.

"Doubt that the stars are fire.
Doubt that the sun doth move,
Doubt truth to be a liar,
But never doubt I love."

HEAGLER, E. A.

He arrived just in time to get his name in.

GORDON, J. H.

"Oh, darn it." Expects to fall heir to Mack Brewer's blue suit.

HENRY, E. A.

The man who said: "He who steals my purse steals trash."

GOSS, A. L.

"I had rather be a moving picture machine operator than President."

HOLCOMB, LILLIAN

"Mother of God! It is like a thousand deaths when one can not see the face one wants."

GRAHAM, J. J.

A perpetual motion fiend.

HALLABAUGH, ESSIE

"If my man don't take to bein' more 'konstant' he'll git fewer letters."

LIBRARY.

HOLT, L. M.

Was seen in the main building one time this year.

JOHNSON, NELLE

"It is not work that makes the student; it is scheming."

HOLT, J. B.

"They do not love that do not show their love."

JORDAN, MARY

Her head is as full of gold as a millionaire's purse—it is red.

HON, MABEL

"It is the greatest art on earth to tell a lie that sounds like the truth."

KEITH, ALLEN A.

A second Zaccheus.

HUNTLEY, B. W.

"Tall oaks from little acorns grow."

KELLER, FRED

"A stranger who strangled his language in his tears."

JACKSON, A. R.

"We know not where he has gone."

KENNEDY, W. E.

A man from a far country.

KILLIAN, VIDA

Lucky is that Freshman, who at the proper time can pose as a Sophomore, Junior, or Senior.

MAGNESS, P. G.

"The Gladiator of Gray Hall,
He will not be strapped.
Strap Magness! Strap Magness!"

KNERR, BERTHA

"The best part of beauty is that which a picture cannot show."

MARTIN, ALMA

Here by mistake, but what can't be cured, will have to be endured.

LAKE, E. C.

He is recognized as the most popular boy in the Junior Class. "Dub" has been known as a woman hater, now he is known as a lady's man. The girls say he is a G. M.

MAY, RUSSELL V.

Her eyes and the color she wears are blue;
If I win the game will I win her too?
If that is true, just see what I'll do.

LAMBERTON, H. C.

"Pat—Shore an' there is nothing too good for the Irish."

McCULLEY, ICY MAE

She says that her highest ambition is to get a M. A. + N. (degree in the U. of A.)

LACER, LUCILE

Her art lies in her artlessness.

MARGUERITE McFARLAND

"But at any rate I have loved the season
Of Art's spring-birth, so dim and dewy."

McGAUGH, CALLIE

Professor Williams says that she is the only girl who knows how to dance correctly.

MOREHEAD, LOUISE

"Resolved, That I will catch some man, by hook or crook, the best I can." Her motto: "There is only one thing that counts; to love and be loved."

McGILL, MINTO

"Sure! Let the women vote, what do we care?"

MOSS, MILDRED

The classical girl. To know her is to love her.

McGILL, S. S.

"Stubby"—Sure enough short.

PAYNE, E. E.

"A man who is in love is not responsible for what he does."

McPHERSON, R. R.

"A whistling wife and a flock of sheep is the very best property that any man can keep."

PAYNE, H. B.

"The man who blushes is not quite a brute."

MIXON, HARVEY

Harvey and Sy, the newlyweds.

POFF, A. A.

"Oh! you great, big grizzly bear."

POTTER, G. C.

The more he studies the more he discovers his ignorance.

RYE, V. X.

"And still the wonder grew that one small head could carry all he knew."

POTTER, H. N.

He can't tell vinegar from wine until he has swallowed it and has the colic.

SCURLOCK, E. H.

The boys say he is good looking, the girls say he is handsome, the Model School children call him rosy, and his girl calls him blondy. He is also a G. M.

PRICE, O. G.

Dr. Price stays at the Experiment Station, and we know but little of him.

SHARP, J. E.

He has musical aspirations on a slide trombone.

RATLIFF, E. M.

"Policy consists in serving God in such manner as not to offend the Devil."

SLAYMAN, C. H.

Here by mistake.

ROYS, M. B.

"He bane a Swede, maby?"

STOUT, S. R.

He spends his Sundays at home?

THOMAS, O. C.
Some one called him a Knight—
"But that—mechanics."

VOLENTINE, PAUL
"That tall man who leads the band."

THORNTON, R. E.
His highest ambition is to become chief pusher of a wheelbarrow.

WADE, HOPKINS
"Heaven and Earth fight in vain against a dunce."

TITUS, I. R.
His voice is likened to that of an ungreased wagon wheel.

WALLER, RUTH
Ruth is a Freshman in ways,
A Sophomore in wisdom,
A Junior enrolled, and
A Senior in flirtation.

TRENT, RUTH
"Thought is deeper than all speech.
Feeling deeper than all thought."

WATTERS, R. F.
"I am Sir Oracle, and when I speak let no dog bark."

TYSON, H. J.
He stops his watch at night to keep it from wearing out.

WINFREE, J. S.

He is mamma's little lady. The girls are all crazy about him.

WEIDEMEYER, H. A.

"They always talk, never think, who have the least to say."

WOLF, W. H.

"It never troubles how many the sheep may be."

WOODY, L. D.

Last, and also least.

IN MEMORY OF

EDWIN CHARLES ALBERSON

DIED JUNE 17TH, 1911

To Edwin Charles Alberson

'Tis said that whom the gods approve die young,
And go far hence with those same gods to dwell;
But we must know there are no gods who dare
Not condescend to men, or but man-made
Are they, and cannot profit anything.
That broad dominion, too, given to us—
The mastery of all created things—
We've turned to our destruction and forgot
That God is One and Love and Kindness—all Forsooth that is—and near us now as when
We wake from death. For He who stilled the wave
Well knew it was the will of God to raise
The widow's son and wake the sleeping maid.
'Tis right to live the three-score years and ten
Allotted, but if earth the less were ours
And Heaven itself a little more our own,
We'd wake our friend, the dear young friend we mourn.

F. L. B.

For the Class of '14

Sweet are the flowers we pluck in the morning,
The flowers full blown by the breath of the light,
Left on the stem through the heat of the noonday,
Their petals embalmed in the tears of the night.

Sweet are the friends we find in the morning,
And dear, too, the ties that are fashioned in youth,
Ties that endure in the stress of the conflict
And bless and caress us with Beauty and Truth.

Close to the hearts of each other Her children,
Alma Mater's, are gathered—close do we stand,
Loyal and true in a great institution,
United in friendship, a brotherly band.

Each of the class, devoted and hopeful,
Perchance a vision perceives in the skies,
A rainbow extends o'er hilltops and valleys
And points to a bag full of gold where it dies.

Gold, or the end of a goodly ambition,
And gold, too, the aim of honor's high quest,
Gold, as the meed of a tender affection,
The gold that will live 'till the last stars rest.

May God in His goodness keep us together
In spirit, tho' distance asunder divide.
Sit Love at the helm in the sun of remembrance,
As down the swift stream we severally glide.

Class of '15

Hark! Ye Freshmen! Juniors listen!
Seniors halt your haughty pace!
Bow your heads in holy rev'rence,
Gaze upon Perfection's face.

Worthy, wiry, fiery fellows,
Soph'mores, they of Arkansas,
Within each living, breathing bosom
They instill divinest awe.

Wonders are they, all in learning,
Heroes on the football field;
Losing, fighting, gaining, winning,
Conquering fates divinely sealed.

Among their band are gayest maidens,
Nature-nurtured, fresh and fair,
Admired and loved by fellow classmen,
Pure and sweet as mountain air.

Verdant Freshies, thank your fortune,
Honor knocks upon your doors.
Away with gloom and dark misgiving.
Some day you'll be Sophomores.

Now raise the wine and drink a toast,
A toast of Love and Truth,
To Soph'mores brave of Arkansas,
To wisdom, honor, grace and youth.

S. G.

Evolution

THE NOBLE Freshman is an undeveloped product—a diamond in the rough. He comes to school unheralded and unhappy. Green socks, red neckties and baggy trousers announce his arrival. The first few days he spends in awful agony. Outgoing trains are loaded with letters to mamma dear from papa's boy. "Back to the farm" is his lonesome and melancholy wail.

By and by he wanders forth from his dark and dismal dive into the world of sunshine and content. A wonderful change now appears. The Freshman conceives an idea—a truly remarkable thing—that he, the little valedictorian from his high school, is, and by right ought to be, free and equal. His conceit and egotism know no bounds. He condescendingly informs the humble Coach of flaws in his system, and shows him many improvements on his methods. He criticises the professors, one by one, and suggests various, sundry and certainly original ideas of teaching. Straightway goes he to the President, and with great patience tells him how schools are managed back home. To the many admiring Sophomores and loving Juniors he recounts his great deeds of valor and heroism—how his touchdown won the last game of the season, and his timely hit saved the day for the home team. Occasionally he speaks to a Senior.

But somehow the unappreciative fellows wreath for him no laurel crown. Then from some mysterious source there comes to him hints and warnings—awful certain. He gazes out on the campus a night, a dark and gloomy night, beholds lights of bloody red, the sign of danger. Timid friends faintly knock upon his door and enter at his haughty bidding. They go with him on a long and lonesome journey. While on this journey they impress certain things on his mind, and other things elsewhere. Then they bring the Freshman home again.

Lo! Another change! The bullying, bragging, boasting Freshman is no more. His very texture is changed. The diamond, in the hands of skilled workmen, has been smoothed and polished. The Freshman has developed into a thoroughbred college man and a good fellow.

As the caterpillar casts off its chrysalis, unfolds its wings of heavenly hue and flits away into worlds of sunshine and happiness, so the Freshman discards his gaudy clothes, uncouth ways and homely manners, and steps into a life of worth and usefulness. He becomes a Sophomore. S. G.

IN MEMORY OF

JAMES HURLBURT VADAKIN

DIED APRIL 8TH, 1912

To James Hurlburt Vadakin

Alas, that he should die so young,
When such unbounded promise lay
Before him! Would I could essay
The songs that his full life had sung!

Alas! What of the lovely bride,
Of whom in rapture oft he dreamed?
The sound of little feet that seemed
To come and linger by his side?

What of the honor he had won?
And what the place that led him on?
The gold whose yellow lustre shone
And shared the glory of the sun?

The bride, only an image she,
And shadows all the little feet,
Supernal visions they, replete
In all things save reality.

The honor that he might have won,
The place that might have been his own,
Are empty as the winds that moan
And die away when day is done.

Transcendent forms the mind can see,
Embodied they are incomplete,
And flesh and blood is not so sweet
As creatures of the fantasy.

'Tis just as well to die, I trow,
Then, ere the morning dew departs,
And yet live on within the hearts
Of us, who stay for weal or woe.

Senior L. I's

Some months ago a hopeful band
Set sail one day for L. I. land
 With faces glad.
But, oh, the fogs of "Preparation,"
The stormy hours of "Presentation"
 'Most drove us mad.

And next there came "Comparison,"
And when at last the step was won,
 We "generalized."
We got some praise, some condemnation;
Then in the throes of "Application"
 We agonized.

And in the seas through which we sailed
It sometimes thundered, sometimes hailed,
 And then it shined.
Soft-thundered insubordination
Called for a peppered application,
 And Johnny whined.

But stormy winds at length were passed,
And fairer zones were reached at last,
 Soft blew the breeze.
The end was coming so much nearer,
And little faces growing dearer
 Around our knees.

The year has ended as each year ends,
And we have found so many friends,
 And all so true.
We've gone on helping one another,
And finding here and there a brother,
 As you may do.

A last good-bye, we've reached the strand,
Our prow is grinding in the sand,
 We are L. I's.
And hands are pressed in silent parting,
I see unbidden tears are starting
 From limped eyes.

DULANEY, JOHN J.....Ashdown, Ark.
B. A. of U. of A., '09.

Has served for two years as Professor of History and Economics in Ouachita College. He is recognized as a thorough student. Is the author of a book on "Taxation in Arkansas," which bids fair to bring him fame. President of the Goar Lyceum, Secretary of the Senior Class, and elected the best debater in school.

CARDEN, W. MORTON.....Malvern, Ark.
A. B. U. of A.

Carden is by far the weightiest man in school. Helps manipulate the Supreme Court machinery. Is a good lawyer. President, Secretary and sergeant of the Goar Lyceum.

WASKOM, J. G.....Marked Tree, Ark.

Waskom has been in the habit of bringing himself into prominence at the different Universities that he has attended by his oratory. He is an excellent trial lawyer, and no doubt will soon come into prominence when admitted to the bar. Vice-President of the Goar Lyceum and Senior Orator.

KNOTT, G. B.....Cape Girardeau, Mo.

A man with many friends and few enemies. Was educated at the Missouri State Normal. Has the air of a deacon. Divides his time between collecting and law. Vice-President of the Senior Class.

SEEMAN, JOHN A.....Little Rock

Graduated at Boscobel (Wis.) High School in 1907, later taking a degree in pharmacy. He says law and medicine make a great combination, hence his greatness. His genial and accommodating nature keeps him a host of friends. Delta Phi Delta.

PARHAM, W. E. RODNEY.....Little Rock

Graduated from Clary Training School in 1907. Has an idea that he is a giant in the social realm. Through his kindness the Mutual Life is able to do business. Is a member of the Delta Phi Delta. His hobby in the Literary Society is making nominating speeches. Few men who receive the benefit of one of them are elected.

DONNELL, I. B.....Little Rock

Is graduate of Searcy College. Chief Deputy of Internal Revenue Collector. Has had considerable experience in the courts. Married during the first semester, and has since given the Law School little attention. Delta Phi Delta. President of the Goar Lyceum.

HOSKINS, JOHN D.....Hot Springs

"Ambition should be made of sterner stuff; yet Brutus says he is ambitious." If his dreams come true he would do wonders. Has his plans drawn for reforming Hot Springs, thereby winning a seat in Congress and lasting gratitude in the hearts of his countrymen. Sergeant of the Goar Lyceum. Received the plurality vote as the biggest gas bag in school.

BURNSIDES, OHMER C.....Little Rock

"I can't conceive of that."

Brought himself into prominence by his wonderful tenacity in asking questions. Stenographer for Associate Justice Hart. His long experience as court stenographer makes him familiar with court proceedings. Clerk of the Moot Court.

McKINSEY, J. O.....Little Rock

Teacher in Little Rock High. Has a habit of telling a joke, regardless of your desire to hear it. Tall and graceful. Is recognized as one of the best students in school. Delta Phi Delta. President of the Goar Lyceum.

REICHARDT, W. F.....Little Rock

Does a little of everything, and is quite successful with all his undertakings. His main occupation is civil engineering. Spends a great deal of his time in Civil Service at Ft. Logan H. Roots. But he prides himself most as leader of the Boy Scouts. Poet and Artist of the (law) Cardinal.

POE, TOM J.....Little Rock

Poe is really misunderstood by all save Judge Carmichael. The less he knows about a subject, the louder and longer his talk. In the Who's Who election, the biggest grafter. One of the most loyal members of the literary society and Moot Court. He is the kind that will succeed as a lawyer.

HOLMES, GEORGE.....Rison, Ark.

Studied law till the Legislature convened; since then has been too busy to do more than pay us an occasional visit. Thinks his law course will aid him in politics. After finishing he will return to Rison to glory in the practice of law and politics. Assistant Journal Clerk in the House of Representatives.

JOINER, JOSEPH W.....Magnolia, Ark.

B. A. of University of Arkansas, '12.

Mixed up with the X-ray. His future is expressed in his own words: "I am going to be a devil of a big lawyer, and may get into politics." Was known at the University as the "ladies' man." Delta Phi Delta. President and Critic of the Goar Lyceum.

KINCANNON, W. L.....Boonville, Ark.

"May (he) rise till (he) meet the sun in its coming, and parting day linger and play on (his) summit." In appearance he is somewhat elongated. Attended Magazine-Ouachita Academy. At present he poses as a short-order druggist.

THOMPSON, J. H.....Alpine, Ark.

This is a familiar name in the proceedings of the Criminal Division of the Moot Court. Thompson did fairly well for a man of his daring spirit during the first semester, but later, with the purchase of an automobile, he no longer regarded the laws of the Goar Lyceum and the laws of the State. His fear of Sheriff House perhaps has done more than anything else to check his ventures.

JOHNSON, C. A.....Paris, Ark.

Has attended the University at Fayetteville. He is rather modest in his bearing, apparently caring little for popularity. Has a keen intellect. His ability is recognized in the Goar Lyceum and Moot Court, as well as the class room.

MILLER, CHARLES L.....Little Rock

Received his early training at the Helena High School. Perhaps talking fire insurance had something to do with his ability as a speaker. Attempts to explain whatever presents itself, regardless of his information on the subject. He will be a successful lawyer, if he can ever make up his mind to leave off the insurance business.

EHRMAN, S. LASKER.....Little Rock

At present is a teacher in the Little Rock High School. Has a practical mind. His business ability has been recognized by the students who elected him Business Manager of the Cardinal this year and Assistant last year. Contemplates pursuing his law course in Harvard. Treasurer of the Senior Class.

HUDSON, RAYMOND S.....Moreland, Ark.

Another teacher who has reformed and taken up the study of law. Attended the University of Arkansas. An active member in the Goar Lyceum, of which he has been secretary.

PIERCE, J. H.....Little Rock

"(Houck) Music (Co.) has charms to soothe the savage beast," one of which is Pierce. Graduated from the Pine Bluff High School in 1910. His handshake is hard to forget. Has a future as a politician. Secretary of the Goar Lyceum.

WAGGONER, W. J.....Lonoke, Ark.

His words are without number, and rain alike upon the just and the unjust. Has many characteristics of a J. P. lawyer. We have no doubt but that he is destined to some day wield the magic wand of a justice of the peace.

WIMMER, G. H.....Des Arc, Ark.

A stranger might take him to be a German. He is the chap who always makes good grades. Is Assistant Librarian of the Supreme Court Library, Secretary of the Goar Lyceum and Senior Prophet. He intends to make his fortune practicing law in Des Arc.

HADFIELD, H. P.....Little Rock

His acquaintance is hard to make and just as hard to forget. He is quiet and unassuming. Has attended the University of Chicago and now is in the employ of the Postoffice of this place.

LANGLEY, IRA C.....Piggott, Ark.

A quasi politician from Northeast Arkansas. Has been Clerk of Clay County and has held many other important offices. He is now a clerk on a committee in the Legislature. It has been said that he may return home and run for Mayor of Piggott.

HARROD, LINN B.....Little Rock

He has a reputation of being as good as he looks. Has attended Daniel Baker College. He refrains from taking anything seriously, even the study of law. Member of the Phi Alpha Delta.

HOUSE, ARCH F.....Little Rock

A former student of the literary department of the University. Is quite popular among the students for the fun he makes. Critic and Secretary of the Goar Lyceum. As Sheriff of the Moot Court he has brought himself into prominence by his daring raids and thrilling arrests. He is the only Sheriff that can boast of being able to control such men as Hoskins when under arrest for infamous crimes.

CROW, W. A.....Little Rock

Superintendent of the meter department of the Arkansas Water Co. Studies law when it doesn't interfere with his work. In class his placid nature is seldom disturbed by following the zigzag thoughts of a lecturer. Member of the Phi Alpha Delta.

WINGO, F. H.....Little Rock
Wingo is the star coach of the Little Rock High. He doesn't let law interfere with his coaching. Attends most of his exams and some of his classes.

YOUNG, E. R.....Little Rock
Once lived in Camden. Little would be known of his accomplishments if it were left for him to disclose them. Stenographer for Judge Kirby.

McCAIN, J. W.....Little Rock
A fellow who never becomes excited. Always plays on the reserve. He is a man who will succeed at anything that he undertakes.

BOYD, W. A.....Little Rock
His experience as a lawyer makes him a leader in the Moot Court. He is practicing in Little Rock.

BURKE, J. B.....Helena, Ark.
Formerly a student in Vanderbilt Law School. Is now an annex to Mehaffy, Reed & Mehaffy. Has considerable ability both as a student and debater. Delta Phi Delta.

STANLEY, ED A.....Little Rock
 Ed is one of the most popular boys in school. Has a pleasant bearing, and is a good entertainer.
 Deputy Secretary of State. Delta Phi Delta. President of the Goar Lyceum.

MARDIS, T. T.....Harrisburg, Ark.
 A. B. Hendrix College, '12.
 Editor-in-Chief of Cardinal (Law)

COHN, LOUIS MORRIS.....Little Rock
 LL. B. of Cornell.
 One of the best informed students on the subject of Law that we have.

Senior History

THE band of rugged Arkansans who landed in Little Rock in the fall of 1911 to champion the cause of justice, together with those who joined their ranks in 1912, bear little resemblance to the phalanx of legal giants now ready to march from beneath the cover of the Old State House to do battle in the courts of Arkansas.

Long and weary has been the journey; many and intricate the traps of the enemy into which some of the bravest have fallen. Ere the first semester had closed the band was decimated; and now out of the original number less than two-thirds remain to bear the colors for which they fought.

In September of 1912 the Class of '13, with its thinning ranks, realizing that a hard winter lay before them, called for volunteers. Their call was answered by men well aware of the perils that accompany two-years-in-one; men tried and true who were willing to fight for the cause they were called to champion. Their reliance lay in their capacity for hard work and their confidence in those generals whose legal knowledge and leadership have led so many through that wilderness of legal terms and tangling meshes of legal thought to victory. The class, including the volunteers, of '12 outnumber the original, and no doubt are as fully equipped for service as that number would have been had they all survived.

Senior Prophecy

LOOKING BACKWARD.

'Twas twilight on a warm spring day in April, 1925. All was quiet in the Supreme Court Library. A strong wind was rising from the west, and occasionally gusts came through the open windows, causing papers and printed briefs to flutter and scatter. An unusually strong puff moved pamphlets from an overhead shelf. Upon inspection one was found to be a catalogue of the Law Department of the U. of A., containing the names of the Class of 1913.

Ye prophet of aforesaid class, then carrying the key to the chamber containing the treasured legal lore, being aroused from reverie picked up the pamphlet and glanced at the names of his classmates of yore.

Sitting at the mile post of the quarter century, memory, filled with pleasant reminiscences, "looked backward" for a dozen years, and in said retrospection saw the changes time had made and what fortune had fallen to the boys of '13.

Charlie Johnson had moved to Eastern Arkansas soon after graduation, and in the course of a few years acquired a rice farm. The irrigation of this farm was supervised by McKay, and Crow gathered the harvest.

McKinsey married a Little Rock girl and bought out Draughon's Business College.

McCain and Hadfield remained with Uncle Sam, each achieved prominence in his service. The former becoming chief assistant to the Postmaster General at Washington, and the latter Assistant District Attorney in a Western State.

The silver-tongued orator of our class, J. G. Waskom, is now Congressman from Eastern Arkansas, and receives strong support in his political aspirations from DuLaney and Hudson.

The brilliant Jews, Ehrman and Cohn, are practicing law as partners in New York City, specializing in Patent and Immigration Law.

Ira Langley is County Judge of Clay County, where he has attained considerable popularity as author of a series of pamphlets known as "Law Quizzers on Corporations."

George Knott returned to Missouri and married a charming little lass whom he brought to live in the northern part of Arkansas, where he is now engaged in the practice of law.

W. A. Boyd, after many trials was finally elected Justice of the Peace, but resigned in three days because of conscientious scruples considering the ethics of the practice.

Ohmer Burnside is now Circuit Judge of his district. On the bench he rules, but at home he walks lightly and is frequently fined for contempt of court.

Burke is house detective for a large hotel in Chicago, owning a controlling interest in a cigar stand in said hotel.

Harold Young teaches shorthand in McKinsey's Business College, and lectures on Partnership in the Law School.

The "lid" has been clapped on in Hot Springs by the energetic Mayor John Hoskins. Tom Mardis committed matrimony soon after school was out, and is now attorney for the St. Francis Levee Board.

The genial Irishman, Ike Donnell, through the influence of his better half changed his politics, and is now the good Democratic Mayor of Newport.

Reichardt, the engineer, is building the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways Canal. For his crew of workers, Jack Seeman is chief medicine dispenser.

Harrod is chief counsel for the Klaw-Erlanger Theatrical Company and is an authority on the drama.

Parham and Stanley are agents for the Mutual, while Kincannon owns a coal mine in Oklahoma.

Argenta has had rather a bad reputation with Waggoner as Police Judge and Tom Poe as Mayor.

Holmes could never persuade himself that he could make a living in anything except politics.

A. H. Rose is attorney for a great copper mining company in Michigan, while Wingo is chief counsel for the baseball trust.

Carden is manager of a gas company, and Charley Miller is State Insurance Commissioner. Thompson and Joiner are making their fortune as agents for the Brush automobile.

History of Junior Class

WHEN the University of Arkansas Law School opened on the 18th of September, 1912, there were forty new students present, who felt that they were called upon to fulfill the expectations of the people of Arkansas for learned lawyers and statesmen. And, if one judges by the looks of the newly-gathered embryonic attorneys, he could have no fear but that their aspirations would be realized and the goals of their ambitions reached.

The opening took place in the old Senate Chamber of the State Legislature, and the disembodied souls of the senators of old seeking peace and tranquillity around their former haunts created among the new students the desire to be righteous men and imbued them with the noble spirit of assiduity, by which they had many years before been carried into the membership of that august body.

This class, the pride and glory of Dean Carmichael, is by far the most promising that has ever entered the University. Nearly every county of the State has a representative in it, and it is safe to say that some day in the near future Arkansas will be justly proud of those members of the Junior Class.

Trusy

On the 18th of September, 1912, the Law School was called to order for a nine months session by Dean Carmichael. The first night was stormy—a brisk wind from old students and members of the faculty.

The first week was spent in organizing classes.

In those days came Peter Lessing, the disciple.

On Thursday night of the second week was organized the Goar Lyceum, the history of whose meetings is highly charged with passionate and spasmodic oratory, which has had its due effect on each attentive audience as they sat in silence, blowing rings with the essence of Prince Albert and "twist," gazing dreamily through the dense clouds of smoke at the wild movements of their entertainers.

On the 28th of October, about twenty members of the Delta Phi Delta took a joy-ride in the hoodlum wagon through the city, which terminated at the City Hall. On this occasion, Peyton Jordan was brought into the limelight as an emergency lawyer. There is no doubt that his touching plea to the cops, together with the peroration which was addressed to Judge Tweedy, prevented a restless night, for him and his colleagues in the chill dampness of a dungeon.

The most important event in November was the marriage of Donnell.

The week before the holidays was given up to Professor Day, a former attorney of Boston, who lectured on "How to Find the Law."

At the close of the first semester, Professor Anderson of the Penitentiary was secured to assist Powers with Bailments and Carriers.

January 15 the married men instituted a plea, praying to be released from the duties of the Literary Society.

January 31 the Moot Court officers were elected, and on the following Wednesday night the first session was held, with a full docket.

February 19 a bill was introduced in the Legislature to place the Law School under the control of the Supreme Court. On the following night a mass meeting of the students unanimously favored the present management of the school. Later the bill was withdrawn and another substituted, repealing the act which admitted graduates of the school to practice in the Supreme Court without an examination. Over this was witnessed one of the hardest fights of the Legislature. The bill was indefinitely postponed. Heroes—Burnsides, Covington and Toler.

A Lawyer's Proposal

(Thirty years ago the following won a bride for its Indiana author.—Published by The Docket.)

To Ann Bright, of Blank, in the County of Blank, Spinster, Daughter of Edward Bright, of the same place, Gentleman, and of Mary, his wife—Madame:

Whereas, I, the undersigned, John Smith, am a bachelor of the age of 28 years and upward now last past, in practice as an attorney and practitioner at law; and,

Whereas, The net annual income and emoluments arising from the practice of my said profession amount to the sum of $1,500 and upward, and in addition thereto I am possessed or otherwise entitled to real and personal property producing a further net income of $1,000 or thereabouts, making, together with the aforesaid professional income, a total income of $2,500, or thereabouts; and,

Whereas, Having regard to the several facts hereinbefore recited, I, the said John Smith, am in a position to maintain and keep a wife, and I am desirous to enter the holy state of matrimony; and,

Whereas, On divers occasions and in divers places I have observed the manner, behavior and demeanor of you, the said Ann Bright, and have further made or caused to be made sundry inquiries and investigations concerning the character, disposition, propensities, habits, tastes, likes and dislikes of you, the said Ann Bright, and have thereby and by other sufficient means duly satisfied myself that you, the said Ann Bright, are in all respects a fit and proper person to become the wife of me, the said John Smith; and,

Whereas, After due and mature deliberation, I have determined to make you the offer hereinafter expressed:

Now, in pursuance of such determination, and for divers good causes me hereunto moving, I, the said John Smith, do hereby irrevocably (but subject, nevertheless, to the stipulation contained in the final clause hereof), offer and tender you, the said Ann Bright, all that and those my heart, hand, body, soul, mind, understanding and affections, to be held by you to me to the use of you, the said Ann Bright, for and during the term of your natural life in case you shall predecease me, or for and during our joint lives in case I shall predecease you.

And I hereby promise and declare that in the event of you, the said Ann Bright, intimating to me in writing or otherwise in the space of seven days next after the date upon which this letter shall be served upon you, or be left for you at your last known place of abode, your acceptance of the offer hereby made as aforesaid, I will within a reasonable period thereafter intermarry with you, the said Ann Bright, at such church or in such other building as you may select for that purpose, and will at all times thereafter during our joint lives, at my expense, in all things maintain and keep you, the said Ann Bright, as my lawful wife.

Provided always, and the offer hereby made as aforesaid is upon the express condition that if you, the said Ann Bright, shall not within the space of seven days after the service and delivery of this letter as aforesaid, intimate by writing, or otherwise, your acceptance of the said offer, the same offer shall thereupon be absolutely null and void, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, designating myself as your humble servant.

JOHN SMITH.

A Lawyer's Philosophy

LIFE is short and time is precious. That is why I must keep busy. It's unfortunate that so many folks disagree with their neighbors, but it's human nature that it's so. The increase of population with its accompanying "high prices" makes a struggle for existence more bitter and, man, to save himself, forgets his neighbor's rights. In turn his neighbor remonstrates, appeals to the goddess Justice and the lawyer turns the scales. It's all strife and struggle and vexation of spirit. I must keep cool and do the right. On the one hand, mammon beckons with a golden wand; on the other sweet-faced Justice whispers in a still small voice. I hear the call in threatening tones of the master Wealth, while modest, loving Duty plucks my sleeve and bids me walk with her. Whom shall I obey? Wealth opens a panorama of power and luxury of dazzling splendor, and as I'm tempted to yield the voice of the people cries out from the ground. Duty leads; I obey Justice and Liberty lives.

The great editor, Arthur Brisbane, has recently said that "the greatest public servant in America today is the capable lawyer, who unselfishly serves his fellow man in allaying strife and in promoting salutary laws for the protection and the elevation of the people."

This is inspiring, yet my philosophy is that of the great Giver of laws who pronounced blessings upon us when he said:

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God."

J. J. DuLANEY.

Mr. Brooks—Mr. Hoskins, what is law?

Hoskins—Why, law is law, man; God, anybody ought to know that.

Burnsides—I can't conceive of that.

Tom Poe—I am surprised at the actions of the dean in regard to this.

House—Mr. Lessing, distinguish between a sale and a pledge.

Lessing—Why-er it is, in a sale-er-ah, dang it, I forgot.

Bolton—Suppose you would take Argenta?

Mr. Robertson—Now, Mr. Bolton, let's have nothing like that in the bargain.

Carmichael—Blessed is he that attendeth the legislature, for he shall prosper. Fret not thyself of the decision of a justice of the peace if thou be the plaintiff, for yours will be the reward.

Mr. Brooks—Don't bother him if he is asleep; I'll ask someone else.

Powers—Now, gentlemen.

To law or not to law; that is the question.

Whether it is safer, in trouble to suffer;

To bear the wrongs and thefts of others,

Or to risk lawyers against the sea of troubles

With their opposing to avenge them. To law—for justice—

If only in justice it would end.

But the heartache and the graft

That law is heir to. 'Tis a consummation

Of your goods they wish. To law—with lawyers—

Sure chance to lose that which you gain. Ah, there's the rub.

For in their game the fees that come

Will more than gobble up your spoil.—Selah.

Periclean Literary Society

COLORS: Gold and Black.

MOTTO: Union—Once a Periclean always a Periclean.

The Periclean Society was founded in 1900. Today it is one of the strongest societies in the University. Its members show the type of work it does by the part they play in public affairs after they leave school. It ranked first in university honors won last year, winning five of the six debaters, the Wingo Medal, the Johnson Loving Cup. Its standard invites the earnest worker to take upon himself its motto and to wear its colors loyally.

The University Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was organized in the University of Arkansas in the year of 1904. This Society holds its meetings twice a month at the engineering hall. Papers and extracts from the A. I. E. E. proceedings and electrical journals are read and discussed by the students. Also the Alumni often send in papers relating to different phases of engineering, generally along the special line at which they are at work.

The Society keeps the student informed concerning the modern uses and applications of electricity, thus bringing him into close contact with men of his chosen profession and causing him to realize the importance of his preparatory work.

The Dorm

YELL

Dormitory! Dormitory! Rah! Rah! Rah!
Beefsteak! Beefsteak! Chaw! Chaw! Chaw!
H₂S! CO₂! We're from the Dormitory!
Who are you?

On the Freshman's first arrival
At the dear old U. of A.
He beheld a stately structure,
That was just across the way,
Rising, grimly, like a prison
Underneath a grove of trees,
Which were rearing, tossing, waving
'Mid the cool autumnal breeze.

Somewhat backward, but proceeding,
 Dragged by curiosity.
 Boldly then he sought unflinching,
 Sought the lurking mystery,
 That he felt those walls were keeping,
 For the windows bleak and gray
 Gazed as if to tell a story
 Of the dear old U. of A.

Then the boasting Soph. related
Tales of horror and of fear,
And continued, boasting, warning,
That 'twas death to venture near.
And the grateful Freshman thanked him
For his kindness, true and warm,
Still abhorring, but in silence,
Everything about the Dorm.

Then the Soph'more straightway left him
And proceeded to the Dorm,
Fearing lest some higher classman
Should descend to work him harm.
But the Freshman passed the building
With his steps quickened by dread,
And behold the chilling deluge
Fell like torrents on his head.

Safe at last—he met some fellows—
Boys of the Y. M. C. A.
And they were not half so cunning
As the Soph'mores by the way.
Soon those dreadful hours were ended,
Friendships ripened till at last
He was one among the number,
Happy soul he was at last.

Here he found with joy his ideal,
Form was gladly thrown away,
But its loss was worth the losing,
At the dear old U. of A.
Every soul was kind and thoughtful,
Every act, unlike the rest,
Made his spirit nobler, brighter,
True friendship was manifest,
But in orderly disturbance
Where good nature turned the mill
(There were stacks—artful proportions—)
Made by engineering skill.

(There were stacks—artful proportions)

Soon the brick walls ceased their frowning,
Through their aisles he loved to roam,
For to him there came a feeling,
Not unlike he'd felt at home,
And his friends, increasing, sweetened,
That fair soul seemed doomed to die,
When he stepped upon the campus
In that awful day gone by.
Winter changed to glorious springtide,
With a fairer sky and earth,
All was joy where once confusion
Reigned supreme o'er joy and mirth.
Then the glad Spring turned to Summer,
And all nature seemed in tune,
College days were nearly ended
With the glowing month of June.

It was past. His course was finished,
Fair Commencement day was o'er,
Ah, sad time, the art of parting
He had learned here to deplore,
And he felt the thorn of sorrow
That was wont to prick his breast
With the sad thoughts of departing
From companions loved and blest.

Ah, alas, that former Freshman
 Who was never fast when slow,
 Was as green as any Freshman
 Who is green enough to grow.
 But the old familiar buildings
 Were not frowning as before,
 And his head was not so empty
 As it was in days of yore.
 But of all the buildings, truly,
 That old Dormitory there
 Is the sweetest thing that ever
 Reared its head into the air.
 And he stood and gazed full-hearted
 For the time with fixed eye,
 Then his full heart overcame him
 And he whispered with a sigh,
 "Ah, my friend, when first I came here,
 Uninviting was thy gaze,
 But I learned one thing forever,
 That is thee to ever praise:
 And thy features—loving features—
 Are as green as on that day,
 When I anchored on the campus
 Of the dear old U. of A."

"Days and nights we've toiled together,
 Toiled with never ceasing strife,
 'Gainst the din of preparation
 For a sweet contented life.
 But when burdened down with problems
 From it all we've turned away,
 To dispel our melancholy
 By a joke, a jest, a play.
 Seen from this abode we'll wander,
 But those recollections warm
 Cannot die, though we are wandering
 Far away from that old Dorm.
 Long, long life to thee, dear building,
 May thy children far away
 Sing sweet praises never ending
 To their Mother—U. of A."

Apologies to Doane, Purdue University, 1899.

Base Ball

ARKANSAS played fifteen games this year, losing seven and winning eight, which was a very creditable showing, considering the strength of the teams which we met, and the short time in which Coach Bezdek had to train our men.

The first two contests of the season, played at Little Rock, were dropped to St. Paul of the American Association. The next game we took from Wisconsin University, at Fort Smith to the tune of 3 to 2, and on the same day we dropped another game to the Chicago White Sox. Then we trimmed the Badgers in two more games on our home grounds.

Texas Southwestern lost two games to us, and we dropped one game to the Pittsburg Pirates at Fayetteville.

We played the last six games of the season away from home. On the northern trip, we won one game and lost one to Illinois University at Champaign. We lost two games out of three to Notre Dame at South Bend, and won the last game of the season from Chicago University at Chicago, 3 to 0.

In view of the fact that four out of seven games lost were to professional teams, it may be well said that the season as a whole was very successful and measured up to the Arkansas standard.

Captain "Percy" played a brilliant game all the season. Many times he was bruised and battered, but was always in position when the whistle sounded. He was picked for the All-Western tackle. Hinton was the only old man that played in every game this year. It was due to his fifty-yard run that enabled Arkansas to score on Wisconsin. Arkansas will feel the loss of this man, as this was his fourth and last year to play on the regular team. He is baseball captain this year.

Russell May is regarded as Arkansas' brightest star, both in football and track. He is a good fellow, and everybody's friend. He is a clean player, yet the hardest player on the team. No matter how hard a man hits him, he will smile and say: "Old fellow, that was good work." Russell, better known as "Rusty," is at times a spectacular player, and at all times a consistent player. He has made more touchdowns, gained more ground, made more tackles, and kicked more goals than any other man that ever played on the Arkansas team in the same length of time. May scored the touchdown on Wisconsin by playing through their line for ten yards. Was captain of the track team in 1911 and 1912, and was elected football captain for 1913 without opposition, and was picked for the All Southwestern this year.

Dutch Schalchlin, the one-season phenomenon, played good football all along. Dutch had never played any college football before this year, except in a class game. Nevertheless, this wiry little Dutchman made good as quarterback. Germany also made good as shortstop on the Varsity baseball team his first year out.

Lee Martin made good as fullback, and was also a first-class end. He is considered by the coach to be a good man to have on the team. He played a star game against Wisconsin, and scored the only touchdown against Louisiana by his clever work. He was always in the game.

Jocko Rhyne, last year's sub. center, made good this year at center. He bucked some of the best centers in the country, and never failed to hold his own. Every game saw him at his regular position.

Poff's weight, combined with his fleetness of foot, made him a strong point in Arkansas' favor. His terrific line plunges were consistent ground gainers.

Harper Harb, a Little Rock star, was injured at the beginning of the season, but came through, and made his letter. Harb was the largest man on the team, and was hard to stop.

Bradford, the old reliable, was, and has been for the past four years the most consistent player that Arkansas has ever had. The Varsity may well regret that Bradford is through with football, for many years will pass before she will get another end like "Old Brad." There was no one as sure of a pass as Bradford. He always got his man, and in most cases he would help his mate get his man. The halfback that played behind him felt sure that the interference would be broken up, and as a rule it was. "Brad" was not fast, but he was sure.

Don Stover entered school late, but with his knowledge of football, and with a course of hard work, he was able to gain recognition as one of the leading players. Don won fame in the Texas A. & M., and the Washington University games.

"Cicero" Reed made his letter as tackle, and he, too, was proud of it. "Cicero" was ill during part of the season, but he came to the front on the home stretch.

Bruce Huntley, brother to the great P. C., was another old man who played this year. Bruce held his old position at right guard, and played a good game. His leg was injured before the close of the season, but he played a brilliant game against Texas in spite of the injury.

Chief Phillips, the Indian, brother of Stanley, played an excellent game all the season. Chief was a good man to depend on. He was large, and had the speed and fight of his brother.

Rudd, of Van Buren High School, is looked upon as a future star in football. He weighs about 170 pounds, and has the most symmetrical physique of any athlete in the University. He is only 18 years old, and is as hard as a rock, and as speedy as a rabbit. What will he be when he shall have played football four years?

Nichols, the 118 pound midget, proved to be a giant before the close of the season. He played in most of the contests, and always played a good game. Nick, as he is called, was one of the surest tacklers on the team. Regardless of the size of the man, he would always pile him.

Nichols, Q.B.

Ratliff, the boy with the big ears, after being out for two weeks, came back and made good. He played at guard.

Frazier, the iron man, won his letter after a hard fight. He was crippled at the first of the season, but would not quit. They could knock him out, but he never failed to come back. He missed practice once or twice, but when the whistle sounded he was ready to answer the call.

Football

The Razorbacks played ten games this season, of which they won four and lost six. The season has been the worst Arkansas has had for several years so far as the number of games lost is concerned; but considering the material that Coach Bezdek had and the hard schedule, he obtained very satisfactory results.

Hinton (captain), May, Bradford and Huntly were the only old men that returned this year, and out of these four, three were injured, leaving Captain Hinton the only old man who played in all of the games. Frazier, a star player, and Gibson, one of the most promising men on the squad, were kept out of most of the games on account of injuries.

Arkansas met some of the strongest teams in the Southwest and North, and covered more ground in travel than ever before, often playing two games in one week. The Razorbacks may be said to have played this season from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, going north to Madison, Wis., and south to Austin, Tex. During the season Arkansas scored 150 points against 179.

Track

The Arkansas track team competed in two meets this year and lost both of them. The first was with Texas University, at Fayetteville; the second with Oklahoma A. and M., at Stillwater, Okla. Each of these schools has had a strong track team for many years, while this is the second year that Arkansas has put out a track team. Although outclassed, we gave Texas a close run, and, considering the conditions, made a fair showing against Oklahoma.

Pretty Boy Questions

TO BEAUTIFY THE VOICE

I wish you to help me render my voice more cultured so that it will be more pleasing to the young ladies.—GIST, still hopeful.

Try debating, dramatics, talk up the school magazine, and note carefully the soft, musical tones of your classmate, Fried W.

"NOT BECAUSE MY HAIR IS CURLY"

Do the girls love me because my hair is curly, or because I'm on the football team, or do they just naturally love a pretty man?—"P" HINTON, distressed.

None of these, dear friend. It's because you are a Kappa Sig.

A VEIL MIGHT DO

My greatest ambition in life is to be beautiful, but alas! my face is a great hindrance to this aim and to the popularity I seek. What would you advise? LAKE, worried.

It is hopeless. Just wear a mask.

CHANGING A FEATURE

I am really a handsome man, but my nose is a decided source of annoyance, even being in my way at times. How can I acquire a small, cute, pug nose? ANXIOUS THOMAS.

Keep ever in mind your ideal and gaze oft upon the nose of one named Moss. If this does not avail, use vanishing-cream and lily-of-the-valley. Apply nightly and with vigor.

I have lately become very crazy about the girl(s), but I find that my nose is rather small for all good purposes. How could I get a large, manly nose that would be my face's most striking feature? L. Moss, troubled suitor.

You and Mr. Thomas may be able to aid each other by being together frequently, each keeping in mind the shape of the nose of the other. In the meantime, use the following formula: Two parts of glue to one of clay, molded in proper shape. Beware of boxing.

FOR EYE EXPRESSION

I am a young man deeply in love, but find that my eyes have too little fire to discourage the rivalry of other men. Can you suggest something that will enhance their sparkling qualities and thus make perfect my otherwise faultless beauty? C. SMITH, a drooping heart.

Wear King's blue goggles to match her eyes, and be careful of your surrounding complexion. It might be well to let your hair grow long and curly, and thus afford a proper background for the star-like eyes. This will give you a dazzling appearance, but please avoid all contact with mirrors, as the breaking of the glass might injure your eyesight.

TO ATTAIN A ROSEBUD MOUTH.

I find that since I have been in college my jack-o'-lantern mouth is not so well liked as it was among the country lasses. How may I attain one of flower-like proportions? J. MARSH, Country Swain.

Just observe that of "Rosebud" Stallings and practice pronouncing the close vowels slowly and without stress. At night use a rubber band.

FOR A NEW CHIN

I need a chin in my business. Would you advise massage or must I go to a beauty doctor? ACHENBACH, in doubt.

Do neither. Grow a goatee.

GENERAL DEFICIENCIES

I am frightfully lacking, somehow, in personal beauty. I don't know in what especial features, so I enclose a photograph. Please answer immediately and in strictest confidence. T. JACKSON, feeling blue.

Your case is deplorable. At present I can suggest nothing. But come to me at once for special treatment. Better come in a closed cab.

TAKE LIFE EASY

I am fast losing my beauty. She doesn't love me any more, and I am sure it is because I am becoming homely. I am distressed. Please investigate my case and give me advice at any price. J. RHYNE, worried.

I think your chief trouble is that you work too hard, and you go out too much with the girls. You were not made for a society man. Keep closer at home and take an easier course so that you may be able to go in for a little exercise. Try football. Take a little economics twice a week and train your voice.

TO APPEAR TALL

I am small, very small; my smallness makes me sad. Indeed, I even feel small once in a while, but not often. Please write me some remedy. BUERKLE, the little giant.

The only remedy I can suggest is to alter your manner of dress. Wear swallow-tail coats and tall silk hats. Have your tailor order stripes for you, and always wear French heels. Stilts would be a help at night. Never be seen in the company of Parsons, Dowdle or any of their ilk.

College Goose Rhymes

Humpty-Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty-Dumpty had a great fall,
But Louise and Hally, when they begin,
Can fall worse than Humpty and all the King's men.
They stood at the entrance to U. of A. Hall,
They paused, they tripped, then red shoes and all,
They tumbled ker-plunk before all the men
And now they won't ever be seen there again.

There was a professor named Turner—
Now, please make never a murmur,
And I will relate
The doings sedate
Of this professor named Turner.

He read at the top of the step,
A poster which said "Get the pep."
His eyes were so dim,
And his knowledge so slim,
That he acted very much like a prep.

He went to his old friend Webster
To find the meaning of pep, sir;
The best that he found
To approach to the sound
Was spelled with an "i" 'stead of "e," sir.

So he put his mind then at ease,
He went to a friend, saying "Please,
Why do they, my dear,
Tell the students out here
To obtain a chicken's disease?"

Wise and worthy Juniors,
In Engineering Hall,
Thought that they would celebrate
And have a Junior ball.

Prissy little Sophomores,
Thought they'd have a dance,
Act like wise old Juniors
When they had a chance.

So they had a party
On a summer night.
Hall was very beautiful,
Wonderfully light.

But the lights that shone so bright
Suddenly played them false
And gave to them the privilege
In the dark to waltz.

Did they stop their dancing,
And take their guests home then?
Nay, they howled with wrathful rage—
When lights came on again!

There were some frats in U. of A.,
And they were wondrous wise,
But they jumped into a squabble,
And scratched each other's eyes.

They talked, and quarreled, and fussed, and fumed.
And even tried to fight,
And some would pass the others by
Nor look to left nor right.

The faculty then took it up
And got the fight subdued,
But still the hurt did rankle,
And still there was a feud.

But now the wounds are healing,
These sweet girls kiss each other—
They now forget that bramble bush,
And prepare to jump another.

Little Miss Hargis, come out and call,
There are boys in the corridor, girls in the hall.
Oh, where are the O. D.'s, that look after the noise?
They're gone with the old days, and so we rejoice.

Little Miss Waller
And little Miss Carrie,
Were doing the Boston dip,
When in came a caller,
A high mogul—very—
And caused those dancers to trip.

Jokes

Miss Holcombe (inspecting rooms in Carnall Hall)—Helen, do you ever sweep under your bed?

Helen Pettigrew (meekly)—Yes, Miss Holcombe, I do; I sweep everything under my bed.

Zora Langston seems to be very much interested in astronomy. Every morning since the legislators visited our school she is known to rise very early in the morning to catch the first Ray of the sun and to repeat slowly and solemnly, "O, bright Ray of my hopes, shine on; it will soon give me a seat in the legislature."

Louise Morehead—Each one of my freckles is a sun's kiss.

Geraldine Lambright—A son's kiss? My, and you're always lecturing me.

Most lakes are calm and peaceful, but we know of a stormy Lake that exists in U. of A.

Bessie Coventon—Bennie, did you scream when Mr. Alcorn tried to kiss you?

Bennie Shell—No; Miss Holcombe was in the next room.

Elza Atkinson has acquired a very peculiar habit of late. She walks on the campus every spare moment, looking down, as if trying to find something. Her friend, Miss Deeg, asked her what she was doing, and she replied that she was straining her eyes to catch a glimpse of Green.

Nelle Bird—Mr. Scurlock slipped on the polished floor and almost killed himself.

Mab Hon—Sort of a hard wood finish, eh?

Evelyn Robinson—Any mail for me, Ruth?

Ruth Gibson—Believe so; it's either a key to Trigonometry or a Latin Pony.

Prof. Evans—Miss Blackman, this story is not good; it is too flat.

Ora Blackman—Well, I read a book, "Advice to Young Writers," and the first thing it tells you is not to roll your manuscript.

Elizabeth Ellis (in Model School)—Elbert, is the Mississippi river very much larger than the Thames?

Elbert Walker—Larger! Why, there ain't enough water in the Thames to make a gargle for the mouth of the Mississippi.

Prof. Mather—Miss Davenport, what effect does the moon have on the tide?

Bessie—None. It affects only the untied.

"Are you waiting for me?" asked Pauline Jordan, coming downstairs at last, after having spent one hour fixing her hair.

"Waiting!" exclaimed the patient Mr. Waldron. "Not waiting—sojourning."

Nelle Bird—Come on, Edith; can't you hurry a little? We certainly will be late to class.

Edith Snell—Oh, no, Nelle; we can't be too late; I have on my new suit.

Prof. Grant in pedagogy class had been impressing upon his students the ultimate triumph of goodness over beauty. At the close of his story he flattered himself for the manner in which he clinched his point. He turned confidently to Frances Boyd and inquired: "And now, Miss Frances, which would you rather be, beautiful or good?"

Frances (after a moment's reflection)—Well, I think I'd rather be beautiful—and repent.

Kate Reed (in Model School)—Who can describe a caterpillar?

Rupert—I can, teacher.

Kate—Well, Rupert, what is it?

Rupert—An upholstered worm.

Prof. Lentz is a German scholar and not very fluent in the use of the English language. When Miss Funk had not been proficient in her recitation, the good-hearted professor made up his mind to help her. After the class had been dismissed, and, to the surprise of the pupils, the professor asked, "Miss Funk, may I, after the class has gone, hold you a few minutes?"

Miss Hargis—Mr. Cherry, why are you taking French?

Cherry—So I can cuss my mules when ladies are around.

Dr. Brough—Mr. McLelland, a man can't be put in jeopardy of life and limb but ——

McLelland—Once in twenty-four hours.

L. Forest—Prof. Mather, how do earthquakes affect the other planets?

Dr. Brough—Mr. Oliver, on an average, about how many apples to the bushel?

Oliver—Depends on the size of the apples.

Kate Lide—Dr. Brough, will there be any water in the Panama Canal?

“Yes, ma'am.”

Kate—I thought they were going to use locks.

Henry—The boy put his hands in his pockets and his finger in his mouth.

Freeman, did you know that J. P. Morgan is dead?

Freeman—Who is he?

Lieut. Wiley—Where do you belong?

Curnut—I am the third man in the hind rank.

Jessie Lee Meyers (looking perplexed)—Oh, I'm so disgusted!

Dr. Pickel—What's the matter, Miss Meyers?

Jessie Lee—I've looked until I'm exhausted and I just can't find this pigeon's teeth.

Kate Lide—He had one eye blue and one gray.

Prof. Wilson—He must have been a freak.

Kate—No, he was only a Jew. (She thought he said Greek.)

Prof. Futrall—Miss Brereton, translate this: “Haec in Gallia est importantus.”

Blanche Brereton—“Hike into Gaul, it is important.”

Rev. Waldrip was making an address at a football rally. He had been comparing our Razorback team with the opposing one, and then he compared our Razorback boys with their fine ones. Of the latter he said: “Their tails were screwed on so tightly that it lifted their hind legs off the ground.” And the “Razorbacks” roared.

Agnes Greig (gazing at Mr. Stallings intently)—Say, Marion, Mr. Stallings has a big soul, hasn't he?

Marion Owens—How do you know?

Agnes Greig—Oh, I just guessed it from the size of his foot.

"How are you feeling?"

"Broken," said the dishes.

"Worn," said the Dormitory Carpet.

"Rotten," said the apples.

"With my fingers," said the Freshman girl smartly, and she was rewarded with a ducking.

"Long live our teachers!"

The toast was drunk. A lean, hungry-looking man arose, and responded:

"What on?"

Elza Atkinson—What are you doing, Zora?

Zora Langston—I'm making a sofa pillow for Mr. Ray. He has a seat in the legislature, you know.

Madge Beall was entertaining her lover in the parlor. The evening wore on. Mab Hon and Ethel Black became anxious and came down to inquire about her. All appeared dark in the parlor. Mab raced up the stairs, got a lamp and proceeded to investigate. To her amazement she found the lost lovers in a secluded corner, seated under the dim rays of a single small shaded light. The sight was too much for "Blackie," and she put her hand over the lamp globe, saying, dramatically, "Put out the light; put out the light!"

Ruth Waller and her roommate were walking down Dixon street when a man appeared in the far distance.

Ruth—Oh, Louise, that's Rus-sel! I just know that's Russel! He's the sweetest thing!"

Her Roommate—Why, Ruth, that's too dark for Russel.

Ruth—I know better. I'm "puffickly" sure.

The object of their attention came and passed. It was Charles, the janitor at Carnall Hall.

Nelle Bird—Helen, do you know any jokes for the Cardinal?

Helen Stuckey—No, not a single one.

Nelle—No wonder. You're a joke yourself.

Sue Bell stubbed her toe on the broom and fell headlong out in the hall.
"Oh, why did I keep Lent on profanity!"

When Helen Stuckey says her prayers she always ends thus: "God bless Hamp, and Stubby and Stunts. Amen."

Rita Armitage—I'm so happy! Tra-la-la! (Picks up the cat.) "Um, 'ittle tweetie." (Explanatory to spectators.) "Really, I just hate cats, but I feel like I have to love something all the time—Earl, he—"

Ruth Waller—Good night!

ADVICE.

To Garland Barton and "Hickey" Ball:

That handshake is all right if practiced on the veranda when the moon is not shining and the lights are out.

To Claudine J. and Lee W.

We do not approve of the modern method of snow-balling. The old-fashioned way of washing the face is the best.

To a Certain Girl:

Girls who are accustomed to leading in dancing at dormitory should be careful when they appear at a regular dance, for we assure you it is not the proper thing to be seen embracing a young man.

To Inexperienced Lovers:

There are various ways of proposing. The latest and most novel way is to write across your book—"Je vous aime," "Ich liebe dich," or something similar, and hold it where the fair one may gaze upon it.

To Strollers:

There is a law in the University that there shall be no strolling in Fayetteville by the students. Our advice is to go to Greenland or Springdale.

Mab Hon—I haven't a date for the scratch dance. Makes me so tired; somebody said my name was scratched, though. Aw shucks, I don't care, nohow. Scratch dances are so common I'm not going to any more.

WHAT THE GIRLS SAY ABOUT THEM.

Spence Buckley.

"Oh, Spence is so cute and sweet! I just love him!"

Lee Wolfork.

"I wonder what Lee is doing?"

Richard Willis.

"How could she stand to go with him as long as she did?"

Colvin Smith.

"Ah, he is just my hero!"

"He seems rather indifferent."

Burton Kinsworthy.

"I'm in love with him, but he just don't love me."

Lowell Moss.

"'Grandfather' Moss and 'Baby' Oneal are a cute couple, aren't they?"

Russel Gregg.

"Hasn't he grand complexion? Wonder if he uses face cream?"

Archie Harville.

"Deliver me from that conceited thing!"

"Oh, I'm crazy about Arch!"

"He makes love to every girl he goes with."

B. J. Skinner.

"I don't care what you say about Skinner, I like him."

"What has come over 'Dad'?"

Ed Scurlock.

"Oh, I'd just give anything in the world if I had Ed's complexion."

Percy Hinton.

First Girl—He looks as though he could chew up anybody.

Second Girl—I hear he's especially fond of girls.

Joe Thompson.

"Makes me tired. I heard him bragging about hugging her when he dances with her."

Jack Thomas.

"When I get to heaven I do hope that Jack will ask me for a dance."

Joe Tanner.

"He cut a dance with me last night. I wouldn't dance with him again to save his life!"

Earl Payne.

"He just picked me up in his arms and carried me across the room (at the dance)."

"Stunts" Hamby.

"You know 'Junebug' 'Stunts?' He's as cute as a mule."

V. X. Rye.

"V. X. is one more dipping, poor idiot!"

Lee Autrey.

"Oh, Lee makes me so tired. He don't know any better, I guess."

Jim Greig.

"Isn't he handsome?"

"Don't you think he holds you rather tight?"

"Ye gods, man! Oh! but isn't he good looking?"

L. I. Anderson.

"Mr. Anderson has French II. with me."

"Gracious, he took French I. year before last. French I. and II. last year and French II. and I. this year. Isn't he brilliant. Five years French I."

Florence Porter (to her roommate)—I don't believe I'll go to church. I don't like sitting there listening to a sermon this morning.

Mildren Moss—All right, Florence; I'll tell God you're sick.

Louise Moorehead—I wonder what Jake Rhyne intends to do when he gets out of school?

Edith Snell—I've been worrying about that ever since I've known him.

The "Ascertaining" Committee

Now listen to a ditty
That concerns a wise committee,
That called forth our utmost pity—
 Nothing more.

'Twas the week after vacation—
No, I mean examination—
When we'd flunked in spite of station—
 (Hearts were sore.)

And there came unto our city
(For "ascertaining") a committee,
Who made the Faculty so fitty
 That they swore.

They wandered 'round o'er all the buildings;
Gazed at all the bricks and guildings;
With their eyes they could have killed things
 But forbore.

Then on Monday—sweet the story—
They dined at the dormitory,
And there took an inventory
 —and some more!

But the joyfulest occasion
Was that splendid convocation,
Where this learned delegation
 Sure did soar.

First the "Chairman of Committee,"
Tall and young and rather witty—
He from Prairie Grove—great city—
 Took the floor.

Next one said, "The Legislature
Do not blame! But blame the nature
Of finances in this State, sure,
 Nothing more!"

But our president had conviction
That all this was purely fiction—
So he said in forceful diction,
 "Friend of yore—"

"We are sick of that old answer
"And we fully understand, sir,
"Whence did come that system, and, sir,
 "What is more—

"If ne'er we get enough taxation
"Or sufficient appropriation
" 'Twill be you'll get condemnation
 "Deserved of yore!"

Following these, a south-state teacher,
Then a wise old spectacled creature,
Who made jokes the principal feature.
 (Big encore.)

Followed then Sir Lancelot,
A man with flowery language hot,
Whose short speech certainly could not
 Be called a bore!

Then there burst upon our sight,
With brilliancy, a Ray of light
Who recalled with all his might,
 Days of yore.

Last, but not least, of Committee,
One whose speech was surely pretty
Because it was so short and hitty
 —We wanted more.

Then they went to the "ladies' tea"
And next day dined with the girls, pardee,
With joy and mirth and jollity
 Unknown before.

To you noble visitors—
You wise and learned legislators,
Listen unto educators
 And give us more—

More money, funds, appropriation,
Solid basis of taxation,
To promote our education
 As ne'er before.

Vanity Fair

Now, as I said, the way through the University lies just through this town of Vanity Fair, and he that would go through the University, yet not go through Vanity Fair, must needs go out of the world.

This fair is no new erected business, but a thing of ancient standing. Prof. Droke himself when here went through it. Well, so do all pilgrims who journey on the highway of education, but behold, as each new band of pilgrims enter the fair, all the people in the fair are moved; and the town itself, as it were, in a hubbub about them, and that for several reasons; for,

First. The pilgrims, known as Freshmen, are clothed with such kind of raiment as is diverse from the kind of raiment of those who have lived in the fair for some time; the people therefore of the fair make a great gazing upon them, because some of them appear prissy, some dudish and some outlandish.

Secondly. And as they wonder at their apparel so they do likewise at their speech, for few can understand what they say; these Freshmen naturally speak the Queen's English, but they of the university are men of the world, and use college slang, so that from one end of the fair to the other they seem barbarians one to the other.

Thirdly. But that which doth not a little amuse the upper classmen is, that these pilgrims set very light store by all their wares. They care not so much as to look upon them, but turn away and put their fingers in their ears and cry, "Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity!" and look upward, signifying that their trade or traffic is in higher education.

Now, when these Freshmen emerge from the wilderness and enter the University, word is presently spread abroad at night in Carnall Hall, the chief place in Vanity Fair, among the Junior and Senior and Sophomore girls, to come quickly down to take the Freshmen girls into examination; so the Freshmen girls are brought in and they are set upon, and asked whence they came and whither they are going, and what they do there in such an unusual garb.

At last things come to a hubbub, and a great stir, until the Freshmen are remanded to bed again until further order shall be taken with them.

About the same time the Senior and Junior and Sophomore boys take occasion to despitefully use the Freshmen boys, some mocking, some taunting; they take them and beat them and besmear them with green paint, and put green caps on their heads that they may be the objects of every man's sport. But the Freshmen of 1912 behaved themselves wisely and received the ignominy and shame that was cast upon them with meekness and patience, and abode in the condition in which they were until they should be otherwise disposed of; and they jotted down in little books which they carried for that purpose all the things which they experienced, or observed, in Vanity Fair, which were as follows, to-wit:

SEPTEMBER.

- Sept. 20. The gathering of the clans. The University of Arkansas comes to life and the Faculty holds its annual reception.
- Sept. 27. Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. entertain the student body at Carnall Hall.
- Sept. 21. Freshmen officially received into the dormitory.
- Sept. 22. Marred cheeks are in evidence.
- Sept. 18. The nine months' siege begins.

OCTOBER.

- Oct. 11. Pi Kappa Alpha house dance.
Sigma Nu house dance.
- Oct. 12. Chi Omega dinner dance.
- Oct. 15. New professor, just over from Oxford. "Aw, I say, Miss F., what is that term you use to express the object of your mass meetings—Get the Pip?"
- Oct. 19. Sigma Chi informal dance.
- Oct. 25. Sigma Alpha Epsilon house dance.
R. R. Stockburger registers at the girls' dormitory.
Sapphic Literary Society reception.
- Oct. 26. Alpha Upsilon Rush dance.
- Oct. 30. The famous Hamby-Millwee trial results in a hung jury.

NOVEMBER.

- Nov. 2. Junior Class reception.
- Nov. 9. Pi Beta Phi dance at "Fern Dells."
- Nov. 15. Misses Hon and Jamison "eke out their slender allowances" by giving a leap-year dance.
- Nov. 16. Sophomore Class reception.
- Nov. 27. Scottie visits her little sister.
Frank Gerig: "Now is the winter of our discontent, made glorious summer."
- Nov. 28. Turkey surrenders its arms—and drumsticks.
The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. give a puritan party and candy pull in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

DECEMBER.

- Dec. 3. Crump Kirby (heard above the voices trying to prompt him): "Ich habe ge—Ich hebte—Ich—"
 Prof Lentz: "Well, Uncle, it seems to me you ought to get that right with so many to help you."
 Crump: "Trouble is, Professor, they disagree."
- Dec. 12. Suggestion to the Weekly Staff: When publishing the list of plays the Carnall Hall girls may attend, would it not be wise to append the list of "undated" girls.
- Dec. 16. The Student Council Entertains with a spread.
- Dec. 20. Home, Sweet Home.

JANUARY.

- Jan. 5. Russell May: "Each cooing dove and sighing bough" stirs some new dream within me now.
- Jan. 6. New resolutions to study harder than ever this year are broken for the first time.
Thirty-day law goes into effect.
- Jan. 25. Week of Terror begins.

FEBRUARY.

- Feb. 3. Old scores settled and a new deal given all around.
 Feb. 8. Freshman dance and reception.
 Feb. 14. Prof. Williams, gazing upon the picture of a beautiful co-ed, soliloquizes:

If I were a star in the sky
 And you were a flower below,
 I never would blink my eye
 For watching you so, I know.

If I were the mighty ocean,
 And you were a leaf on my breast,
 Never-more would the ocean know motion
 For fear of disturbing your rest.

But as I am a young man dashing
 And you are a maiden heart-free,
 I'll bet you—you product of fashion,
 You'll land me, eventually.

- Feb. 14. Kappa Sigma house dance.
 Feb. 21. Sigma Nu annual dance.
 Feb. 22. Pan Hellenic banquet.

MARCH.

- March 1. Stunt night.
- March 4. Holiday.
 Ruth: "O, yes, Wilson is going to be initiated today."
 E.: "Why, this is March 4th."
 Ruth: "What is today, anyway?"
- March 7. Theta Nu Epsilon dance.
- March 15. Pi Beta Phi annual dance.
- March 17. Engineers celebrate St. Patrick's Day.
- March 20. Miss Helen Stuckey is officially appointed proctor over Mrs. Park and Miss Holcomb.
- March 21. Junior-Senior Day. "Eat, drink and be merry."
- March 22. Chi Omega annual dance.
- March 28. Zeta Tau Alpha annual dance.
- March 29. Pi Kappa Alpha annual dance.
- March 31. Heard in Miss Bland's Class: "Can't Miss Bland make one feel the cheapest?" "Yes, when you don't recite she thinks you don't know anything, and when you do, she knows you don't."

APRIL.

- April 4. Sigma Chi's annual dance.
April 11. The Sigma Phi Epsilon give their annual dance.
April 15. A (telling a joke): "And Grouch said: 'Now, sure enough, boys, tell me, I don't know where macaroni grows.'"
Beatrice: "Well, I don't see that that is so funny; I don't know where macaroni grows, myself."
April 18. The Kappa Alpha annual dance.
April 26. The Alpha Upsilon annual dance, closing the dance season.

MAY.

- May 1. The thirty-day law again goes into effect.
May 12. The Seniors begin to wonder if their diplomas will be forthcoming, and to look up credits.
May 29. Final examinations.

JUNE.

- June 7. Dramatic Club play.
- June 8. Baccalaureate Sermon, in the University Chapel.
- June 9. Garland Literary Society play, "The Girl With the Green Eyes."
- June 9. Commencement drill.
- June 11. Commencement.

About this time was word presently brought to the Great One of the fair that examinations had long been over, and he deputed some of his most trusty friends to take these Freshmen, one by one, into examination. Then a convenient time being appointed, they brought them before their enemies, the Doubtful Committee, in order, to their condemnation.

The Judge's name was Lord Shannon. Then proclamation was made that they who had ought to say against the prisoners at the bar should forthwith appear and give in their evidence; so there came in three witnesses, to wit, Harding, Williams and Ripley, who were asked if they knew the culprits, and what they had to say against them.

Then stood forth Harding and said to this effect: "My Lord, I have known them one term and notwithstanding they have plausible manners, some of them are the poorest students in the University. They have failed mathematics most miserably.

Then they called Williams, and then Ripley, and they swore the same against some of them, that they knew naught of English, nor of Physics; then the Freshmen had a respite, and were remanded back to work again until they should have further discourse with them.

Meantime the Freshmen looked to the other end of the fair through which they had not yet passed, and knew not whether they ever should pass through it, but they continued to longingly write down what they saw there.

The following extract was taken from a letter written to a young man contemplating entering a business college:

"If you have selected Memphis, or some college in Memphis to attend, I would say, 'Go to Nelson's Business College.' While I did not attend this one, I afterwards found out that it would have been better for me if I had. They are the best equipped of any in Memphis and enjoy a wide reputation as to competent graduates."

Large well lighted and ventilated rooms for each department. A strong faculty of competent men teachers. A thorough up-to-date Actual Business Course of study. The famous New Rapid shorthand, and a "square deal" for each student, are a few of the special features.

DRAUGHON'S Practical Business COLLEGE

THE OLD RELIABLE, HIGHLY HONORED and POPULAR BUSINESS TRAINING SCHOOL

Colleges in 18 States

Little Rock, Ark.

Hollenberg Building
Main and Seventh Streets

Visit our building, inspect our appliances, examine our equipment, compare our faculty with that of any school, note the success of our graduates, and then ask a business man why he always prefers a "Draughon graduate." (It is due to the difference in training.) You will then realize why the path to Draughon's College is well beaten.

ATHLETICS

We encourage Athletics by supporting a first-class Football Team and a Champion Basketball Team

Draughon's Little Rock College is unequalled in its building, faculty, equipment and reputation. It's the LARGEST simply because it's the BEST
